

SUMMER OUTINGS FOR BABIES

Associated Charities Extends Its Work and Establishes Camps.

LIST OF THE CONTRIBUTORS

A white city is going up at Camp Good Will and Camp Pleasant, Lincoln Heights. The summer outings committee of the Associated Charities has adopted white for all its painted structures, both inside and out. The only deviation is the khaki tents and the awnings of the recreation pavilion. The interior walls of the administration building of Camp Good Will have been re-whitened and the barn and outbuildings are receiving a fresh coat of whitewash. White has been adopted as the best symbol of cleanliness.

In addition to the sixty-six tents, two large sleeping porches have been constructed at two of the camps. The lumber for the one at Camp Good Will has been donated and the labor contributed by volunteer workers.

With the establishment of Camp Get Well another link in the chain of summer outings for poor children and their mothers has been added. Hitherto the workers of the Associated Charities have at times been unable to send the family away to the country because there was a nursing mother and an ill baby for whom adequate provision could not be made. Now with the fully equipped baby camp these mothers and infants can be provided for while the other children are being looked after next door at Camp Good Will.

Camp Get Well is designed for extremely ill babies who cannot be cared for at either Camp Good Will or the Children's Country Home. Every physical working among poor babies has the privilege of recommending his fliest babies for a stay at the camp. The length of time of this stay will be determined by the need of the child. Some babies may be there a week, some may be there for several weeks. As soon as the babies are convalescent enough not to need the sanatorium care, they will be transferred either to the Children's Country Home of Camp Good Will.

Special arrangements have been made with the Children's Country Home, through their president, Mrs. Murray Cobb, for the reception of these babies and their mothers.

Giving Personal Service.

Mrs. Louis A. Simon, chairman of the committee on Camp Get Well, will remain in Washington during the entire summer to be at hand as volunteer housekeeper. Dr. Louise Taylor Jones, the well-known baby expert, will be interested in Camp Get Well for babies and their mothers, that she too has consented to live at the camp during July and August, and to contribute her services as resident physician.

The director of the vocational training in the Washington public schools, Mr. Frank Woodward, and his assistant, Mr. William F. Smith, have supervised the erection of the sleeping porch at Camp Good Will, the labor for which has been given by the pupils of the vocational school, different groups of boys working on different days.

Another example of good team work on the part of our local charities in working together for the interest of the mothers and children is seen in the offer of instruction in the Camp Good Will Society to follow up any children reported as physically defective.

These children will be followed up at home after their return from the camp, by the district nurses to see that they receive proper medical attention and that the defects are remedied.

A pair of scales has been contributed by the Washington Public Schools.

Good Will. Each child will be weighed upon entering and upon leaving.

Those in Charge.

The following are the officers of the Summer Outings Committee and the three camps: Mr. John Joy Edson is chairman of the summer outings committee. Capt. Andrew Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Russell, secretary; and Mrs. Edna Keene Bush, superintendent of Camp Good Will; Rev. W. D. Jarvis, D. D., is chairman of the Camp Pleasant committee; Dr. George W. Cabanis, treasurer, and Dr. J. H. Waring, medical director, are the officers of Camp Pleasant; Mrs. Louis A. Simon is chairman of the committee on Camp Get Well; Dr. Louise Taylor Jones is resident physician, and Miss A. Victoria Hagelin, superintendent of Camp Get Well.

Many responses are being received from out of town and the summer homes of Washington residents, showing that the needs of those left behind are not forgotten. Accompanying the donations are expressions of regret that the particular child could not be doubled and trebled in size.

SHERMAN IS GLAD HE WAS NOMINATED

He Says Job of Presiding in Senate Is Both Pleasing and Congenial.

Utica, N. Y., June 22.—Vice President Sherman issued the following statement at his home here to-night, following the receipt of a dispatch from Chicago appointing him of his re-nomination for the Vice Presidency.

"I am not ungrateful of the honor conferred by the nomination by the Republican National Convention. To appreciate its full significance one must remember that it is not for three-quarters of a century has a re-nomination been accorded to any one for this high office."
